

Japanese Educator Brings Fine Message At Sage Chapel

Dr. Hachiro Yuasa, former head of the department of Etymology at the Imperial University in Kyoto, Japan, and president of the great university of Doshisha, spoke in Sage chapel last Wednesday morning on "Making Christian Fellowship a World Reality."

The Japanese educator said, in part, "the Sino-Japanese war is a tragedy of history, but even at this moment when Japan and China are the storm centers of the world Japanese Christians share fellowship with Chinese Christians."

Dr. Yuasa told of his meeting with T. Z. Koo and other great Chinese Christians at the recent Madras conference and of their complete kindred feeling of brotherhood and of sorrow that their countries were not friends. "When reconciliation finally comes between the two nations, it will come because the Christians are the ones on whom the great task of reconciliation rests," said Dr. Yuasa.

The Japanese University president is at present making his headquarters at Union Theological seminary in New York City and will hold a great fellowship at the University of Illinois, his alma mater, next year. Dr. Yuasa received his master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Illinois before he became a professor at the Imperial University in Kyoto. Since the Madras conference, Dr. Yuasa is lecturing for the World-Wide Christianity movement.

SACRED CONCERT PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Will Be Held Sunday, May 14
TO BE BROADCAST BY THE N. B. C.

Melvin L. Gallagher, choral director of the Northfield schools, announces that the program for the 44th annual Sacred Concert to be given by Northfield Seminary and Mount Hermon school on Sunday, May 14 is completed. The concert will include several hymns to be sung by both the schools and the audience, as well as numbers by the a cappella choir and the combined choirs of the two schools. The first half of the program will be broadcast from 3 to 3:30 o'clock by the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Auditorium Where Sacred Concert Will Be Given

The program will include the following selections:

"O God, Our Help in Ages Past"
"Carol of the Bells"
"Gloria to God in the Highest"
"Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring"
"O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee"
"A Legend"
"Beautiful Saviour"
"O Bone Jesu"
"Thee Holy Father We Adore"
"Exaltation"
"The Spacious Firmament on High"
"Laudamus"
"Worship"
"When Wilt Thou Save the People"
"O God, In Restless Living"
"And the Glory of the Lord"
"The Northfield Benediction"

The numbers which will be sung by the a cappella group are "Carol of the Bells," "A Legend," "Beautiful Saviour," "Exaltation" and "O God, In Restless Living." The music for the last selection was written by Mrs. Gallagher with words by Harry Emerson Fosdick. The music was suggested to the composer by reading the verse and so it is intended to be a harmonic expression both of the voice inflections used in speaking the words and of the feeling aroused by speaking or singing them.

"The Northfield Benediction" which closes the program will be sung by the student body. It was first used at Grandma Moody's 80th birthday celebration in Marquand hall. The benediction is outstanding because it carries with it memories of commencements, farewells, final gatherings of the school year, and bygone Sacred Concerts. The students of the Northfield schools have sung this benediction for 54 years. Although the composer, Lucy Rider Meyer, was only here one year as a Bible teacher she left a record of service in every phase of school life.

Mr. Gallagher will conduct the program and the accompanists will be Miss Marian Keller and Miss Catharine M. Colton of the Seminary Music department and Carlton W. L'Hommiedieu of the Mount Hermon music department.

The highway department of the state is unable to do anything in the planting of trees now owing to the lack of funds.

The Talcott Library Receives Many Gifts At Anniversary

One of the most successful events of the school year at Northfield Seminary took place here last Saturday evening in Silverthorne hall when Talcott library observed its 50th anniversary. Innumerable gifts were received during the colorful birthday program at which Mrs. Bertha Damon, author of this season's best-seller, "Grandma Called It Carnival" and Eric Kelly, writer of many teen-age books among which are "The Trumpeter of Krakow" and "The Blacksmith of Vilno" were the principal speakers.

Gifts to the library from present students, alumnae, trustees and friends were received and acknowledged by Miss Stella Morse, librarian. Over 25 books, many of them with inscriptions to the library written by the authors, were presented, as well as many gifts of flowers, vases, lamps, pictures and library furniture. About $300 to be used for new books was also received.

The Talcott library birthday captured the imaginations of the 530 Seminary students and their response to the speakers was enthusiastic. It is especially interesting to note that Mrs. Damon is a Northfield Seminary alumna. Following the anniversary program there was an informal reception at which birthday cake and punch was served.

Resigns Pastorate The Rev. Mr. Anderson Is Well Known Here

Rev. W. S. Anderson, resigned his pastorate of twelve years of the Robbins Memorial church in Greenfield recently but is remaining until the congregation selects a permanent pastor, the first candidate preaching last Sunday. Mr. Anderson will continue his residence in Greenfield and maintain his interest in Christian work and its activities.

He is well known in local religious circles and is a frequent visitor, each summer attending the sessions of the General conference and other gatherings. He had a part in the organization of the County Federation of Brotherhoods and mens clubs and is its honorary president.

A native of the north of Ireland, Mr. Anderson came to this country as a young man in 1893 at the invitation of Dwight L. Moody. He and 14 other young men were asked to take part in the Chicago campaign during the World's fair and to attend the Bible institute. After six months in Chicago, he came to Mount Hermon to study for three years.

After supplying in churches throughout the county, Mr. Anderson became pastor of the Prescott church for a year and then at Moores Corner for four years. The Home Missionary society asked him to give up the church to devote himself to county missionary work. He was county missionary until 1934.

His work as county missionary made him a beloved and familiar figure in all sections. Pitching his tent in places easily accessible to several families, Rev. Anderson conducted services for several days. His coming was welcomed by the residents of sparsely settled sections.

Another outstanding contribution made by Mr. Anderson is Camp Beth at Lake Wyola which he founded in 1932. The camp has been a boon to the smaller churches of the county, the children of which are eligible to attend the camp. It has grown from 25 campers the first year to 130 campers in the past few years.

Soon after he left school, Mr. Anderson married the former Minnie Waring, a girl from the north of Ireland, who became the first woman nurse at Mount Hermon school. They have three sons, James of Millburn, N. J. and John and Samuel of Greenfield.

PRELUDE

I waken suddenly: the clock strikes two;
The house is very still;
My thoughts are free to wander where they will.
I know a lovely, quiet thing to do,
A prelude to another busy day—
Time, time to pray!
Rare waking hours within the friendly night!
My window frames a star.
God does not seem intangible, nor far.
My prayer glows upward like a holy light:
Dear names fall from my lips in gentle sighs,
And heavenward rise.
The burden of their pain, their sin, their care
Is mingled with my own.
And suddenly, mysteriously down
To one strong Heart, and left forever there.

Science Finds Why Women Stand Cold Better Than Men

The average woman can stand extremes of temperature better than the average man because her body is wrapped in a thicker layer of "insulating" tissue. This tissue also accounts for her more softly rounded figure.

The thicker the insulation is, the more comfortable it will keep the body. For the same reason, houses equipped with insulating materials, three to four inches in thickness, are more comfortable than those equipped with only one half to one inch thick insulation.

The effectiveness of house insulation can be likened to a flight of stairs, with each step representing an increased thickness of insulation. The first step in the above chart, for example, represents one half inch of insulation. Each step above that represents an additional one half inch of insulation, so that the top step represents 3½ inches of insulation. This thickness, most nearly reached by mineral wool insulation, provides not only the greatest winter and summer comfort, but also the greatest fuel savings, and should be used whenever maximum comfort and economy are desired.

HOLD THE LINE, Please

The average time to make a long-distance telephone connection is but one and one-half minutes. Most calls go through while you "hold the line." Friends, no matter how many miles away they may be are within quick and easy reach. And there's a personal quality to telephoning that's like nothing else except a personal visit. Out-of-town rates, you'll find, are very reasonable.

Today everyone wants to talk into a microphone.

Because that little gadget holds such a strange fascination for listeners, it seems to explain, in part, the consistent popularity of radio's quiz programs which are still going strong. That, in addition to Welcome Lewis' belief that fans like informality on the air.

Welcome conducts the WHN Singing Bee Tuesday nights and for many months now requests for tickets to watch the broadcast have climbed. At each program session, the Hotel Edison is packed to capacity. And almost all members of the audience want an opportunity to get in front of that microphone to battle for the money prize.

What a change this is from the old days when most people were afraid of the airwaves and "mike fright" was a common disease—not only with amateurs but many times with entertainers who were tops in other fields. While some still fear the microphone, its the Welcome Lewis kind of programs that have helped with their informality to acquaint more people with the art of broadcasting.

CHATTER. M. Franchot Tene draws the Bob Hope summer spot, he will withdraw from the Group Theatre... Enoch Light's drummer-boy vocalist, Smith Howard, middle-aged it with radio actress Barbara Walsh... Initial NBC television program April 30 will have President Roosevelt as the subject... and in a few days CBS will have completed installation of its tele antennae in the Chrysler Tower... with Federal and local authorities working on the case they'll probably find the guy who sent news commentator George Combs a bullet in the mail... Hal Kemp will again be back on the Time to Shine series when the show bows on WABC airwaves May 3... sportscaster Bob Carter with a new nightly late sports show on WHN will also give forecasts... Silver Theatre folds May 28... to date there's no replacement... The American Way as an airshow is again being auditioned.

STORY OF THE WEEK. Recently Jimmie Lunceford read a symposium on swing music in a magazine devoted to that subject, written by high school boy and girl jitterbugs. A number of the youngsters had some disdainful things to say about Lunceford, preferring the styles of Goodman, Shaw and Crosby.

And so from the editor of the publication, Jimmie obtained the names and addresses of the youngsters and he has invited them to attend his broadcast Sunday night. Following the show, Jimmie and members of his band will engage in a debate with the youngsters who think he is not so hot.

And Lunceford's gabfest on the various types of swing will continue until he turns the microphone to his side!

EDITORIAL

Give little heed to the man whose thoughts are motivated by utterance or anger. He is not a progressive thinker. He takes a stand and, because he spoke in anger, thinks he must stay with that stand. The good thinker knows that tomorrow he may come into possession of a new fact which will cause a shift in his stand. Many such thinkers are about us, in the long run, they snap our destiny. The loudspeaker, the "leader" of a movement is the person we hear at the moment. But "leaders" soon grow silent, because it doesn't take them long to exhaust their store of thoughts, and then, if they keep on talking, their words have an empty, tinkling sound. Soon their day is done.

The Back Yard Gardener

Where have you heard this one before? For Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and the rest of New England, continued cloudy with possible snow showers, not much change in temperature. Wednesday, fair and continued cold. But regardless of what the weather man seems to be bent on giving us, I am willing to wager that Susan Spring is going to spring a surprise. In other words, the first thing you know she will pop right out and be with us in all her glory, as only spring in New England can be.

Well, anyway I'm making plans to include more shrubs in my garden picture for two very good reasons. Early spring is an ideal time for new planting or trans-planting of shrubs and all types of perennial flowers. The second reason is that my new home certainly lacks considerable in the way of proper shrubbery, because to me shrubbery is like the background you might say of the garden picture.

Of course everyone likes to have a slightly different picture, so with all the shrubs available you should never lack for want of something to fill the particular purpose you have in mind.

One place where I think most folks make a mistake is in getting shrubs planted in the wrong place or the wrong type of shrub in the wrong place. Too frequently high shrubs are included in the front lawn planting. I saw a big rhododendron shrub the other day which completely covered two front windows. While it was a beautiful plant, it certainly was out of place in that particular spot.

Then another beautiful thing about shrubs is that you can make color in your garden throughout the spring, summer, fall and winter. For the front part of the house it's usually desirable to have a little green all the year around. This is commonly done by the use of evergreens, both needle and broad leaved; but another shrub which is rather small and lends a good deal of color is daphne mezereum. This is a really early flowering shrub.

The azaleas are particularly good; Korean azalea and azalea vaseyi. Of course on the sides of the house or in the rear of the home grounds you can use the taller azaleas. Azalea arborea is probably one of the best. Flame azalea and torch azalea are both excellent. The latter is particularly good in shady plantings.

For planting against the foundation there is the old dependable spirea thunbergii. An old fashioned and interesting shrub is the sweet shrub. The botanical name is calycanthus floridus. This has chocolate colored blossoms which have the fragrance of ripe strawberries. And of course the hybrid mock oranges are very effective, since they are not so tall growing as the old fashioned kind and hence are more suited to foundation plantings. Avalanche and Lemoine are two very excellent varieties.

The old fashioned mock orange, philadelphus coronarius, is excellent for places where you can use taller shrubs. This group is more fragrant than the hybrids.

The Manchurian bush honeysuckle is another good selection.
The common pearl bush makes almost a tree-like growth and is covered with pure white flowers.
And don't forget in selecting your shrubs to consider the flowering dogwoods.
